A CASE OF TELEPATHY. Old Lady Appeared in a Vision at the rime of Her Death. A gentleman took a house in Ireland for six months and was accompanied thither by his wife and daughters, says Realm. The house was furnished and had plenty of bedrooms. Therefore it was decided not to use a certain large, long room with cupboards along one side (which had all been locked and sealed up with tape) in which things be longing to the owners of the house had been put away. One evening one of the daughters going to her room saw an old lady wrapped in a shawl walking along the passage in front of her. The old lady appeared to know her way and hurried on without hesitation into the Gib unused room. The girl called her sister | Fine and they followed the dame into the room. But all was silent; no one was there; the dust lying about showed no signs of footprints.

Shortly after the same young lady was reading on the hearthrug by fire-light. Looking up she beheld the old Duff lady standing in the doorway watching Old her. Greatly frightened, she sprang up and, rushing downstairs, was found Old fainting at the drawing-room door. At last the family returned to Dublin. One day when a friend was calling the curious incident which I have narrated was referred to. The young lady very unwillingly told her experiences. The visltor seemed much struck and asked for an accurate description of the old lady. "For," said she, "that house belonged to two old ladies, sisters, and when they let their house they went to reside at Geneva. One of them, answering exactly to the description you have given. died at the time you saw her appear.

A STRANGE ADVENTURE.

Curious Case of Catalopsy at Hospital de Pont-PEveque at Deauville. The Temps reports a curious case of catalepsy which for several weeks has been engaging the attention of the doctors at the Hopital de Pont-l'Eveque at Deauville, reports the New York Herald.

On the morning of July 25 last a young man, quite naked, was found on and he was carried to the hospital.

recognized. On Thursday evening the unknown man awoke and, surprised at questioned his neighbors as to how he came to be there.

"But it is impossible!" he exclaimed, on being told where he was. "I am in Paris and I have never left it. Only esterday I was working for my em ployer, a packer in the Faubourg du He stated that his name was Louis

AN AMBER FISH.

Fish Well Known in Southern Waters,

But One Rarely Seen Here. The amber fishes-there are several species of them-belong to the family that contains the crevalles, the pom pences, the banded pilot, the horsefish, and the threadfish. In shape they are nearest like the pilot fishes; they bear a general resemblance in shape, however, to the bluefish, though not nearly related to that fish. They are rapid and powerful swimmers and great travelers. The amber fishes are found in nearly all tropical and temperate waters; in the Mediterranean, the waters of the West Indies and the Gulf of Mexico, and in various parts of the Pacific ocean. Some of them are excellent food fishes-all are shapely and beautiful. The larger of them may attain a length of four feet or more and a weight of 50 pounds. Large amber fishes are common on the coast of California, where they are among the most celebrated of the game

On this coast, says the New York Sun, the amber fish comes as far north as Cape Cod, but rarely; one taken in a pound net in Gravesend bay in July of the present year is perhaps the first of its particular species of which there is record here. This fish was a little more than 33 inches in length, and it weighed

been fired is a few yards over 15 miles, which was the range of Krupp's 130ton steel gun, firing a shot weighing 2,-600 pounds, says Spare Moments. The A perfect fit is guaranteed in every case 111-ton Armstrong gun has an extreme range of 14 miles, firing a shot weighing 1,800 pounds, and requiring 960 pounds of powder. These guns, however, proved too expensive, being unable to stand firing 100 times, and their manufacture has practically been abandoned. The 22-ton Armstrong gun hurls a solid shot for a distance of 12 miles, and the discharge of the gun cannot be heard at the place where the ball strikes. From 12 to 13 miles is the computed range of the most powerful guns now made, and to obtain that range an elevation of nearly 45 degrees is found to be necessary. Quick-firing gun's are more to be depended upon at the present day than extreme length of range, and in this respect what is considered the most won derful of guns, perhaps, is one of the Maxims, which can fire as many as 600 shots a minute, and yet is so light that a soldier can carry it strapped to his

FOOD IN THE ARCTIC. Birds Have No Difficulty in Finding Sustenance Amid Perpetual Snow. The numbers of birds that go to the arctic regions to breed is "vast beyond conception." They go not by thousands but by millions to rear their young on the tundra. The cause which a seat at Deauville sleeping soundly. Photographs were taken of him and circulated in the district, but without being to make journeys of thousands of miles to rear their young in a land of plenty, only to be found beyond the arctic cirfinding himself in a hospital ward, cle, seems incredible. The vegetation consists of cranberry, cloudberry and crowberry bushes. Forced by the per-petual sunshine of the arctic summer, these bear enormous crops of fruit. But the crop is not ripe until the middle and end of the arctic summer, and if the fruit-eating bird had to wait until it was ripe they would starve, for they arrive on the very day of the melting of the snow. But each year the snow descends on this immense crop of ripe fruit before the birds have time to gather it. It is then preserved beneath the snow perfectly fresh and pure, and the melting of the snow dis-closes the bushes with the unconsumed last year's crop hanging on them, or lying, ready to be eaten, on the ground. The frozen meal stretches across the breadth of Asia. It never decays and is accessible the moment the snow melts. Ages have taught the birds that they have only to fly to the arctic circle to find such a store of "crystallized foods" as will last them till the

With the close of the Presidential campaign THE TRIBUNE recognizes the fact that the American people are now anxious to give their attention to home and business interests.
